Golden Wedding Couple Honored at Beiseker

BEISEKER.— A large number of friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Gabriel Schwengler of Beiseker gathered at their home recently to celebrate their golden wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Schwengler were married in 1900, and in 1908 came to Canada. They lived in Beiseker two years before going south of Whitley, where they homesteaded until 1924. They returned to Beiseker, and farmed until their retirement in 1949, when they came to live here.

There are three daughters, Mrs. Joseph Hagel of Beiseker, Mrs. P. Miller of Preplate, Sask.; and Mrs. Joe Kiprick; four sons William, Anton, Simon and Nick; 21 grandchildren.

Rev. A. E. Tennant presented the honored guests with a rosary each from the family; and they also received a hot plate from some of the guests.

Guests present were: Mr. and Mrs. Ignatz Hagel, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Schmaltz, Mr. and Mrs. Magnus Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Nick Velker, Mr. and Mrs. John Schwengler, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hagel, Mr. and Mrs. William Schwengler, Mr. and Mrs. Anton Schwengler, Simon Schwengler, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Kiprick, Mrs. Tom Hagel, Mrs. Andrew Schmaltz, Mrs. E. BEISEKER NEWS BRIEFS

Daniel and Baltzer Schmaltz have gone to Olds Agriculture School to attend a week's free course they were given as their awards in the Junior Club work.

Daniel won his for efficiency in wheat club work, and Balster in the Calf Club. We hope these ambitious young farmers will have an enjoyable as well as educational week.

Beiseker and District can well beat Irricana at Beiseker last Wednesday, July 12th, by a score of 5-3. On Sunday, July 16th, Acme and Keoma played off with Keoma winning with a score of 2-1. This Wednesday Beiseker will play the losing team at Acme.

Beiseker and District can well be proud of the Beiseker Lions Club Band which in competition with centres as large as Lethbridge and Swift Current and a total of over 220 bands came fourth in the Calgary Stampede parade.

We understand that the local trustee of the Wheatland School Division is negotiating a deal to put a 36 passenger school bus in service for the Beiseker district. It is also rumored that negotiations are in progress whereby two will probably be purchased for the Acme school.

The gravel crushing equipment has been moved into the gravel pit in preparation for gravelling the new highway between Beiseker and Irricana.

Ki Killen will be confined to the Colonel Belcher Hospital for two weeks, due to a recurrence of a former ailment.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bosch and family have returned from Ladner, B.C., where they visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Tierle.

Mrs. Schissel has returned from Compton, Calif., where she had been holidaying for a month. She motored back with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. A. MacKinnon, who are here on holidays.

Mrs. German and Lawrence have gone to Kelowna with Mr. and Mrs. Bill Schleppe. She will visit Adam Schleppe and Mrs. Peter Hagel as well as other relatives and friends.

Mrs. Emma Wegener accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Harold (Hap) Anderson and Lucille back to their home in Trail, where she will spend several weeks.

Mr. C. F. Lohrke has been confined to bed with an attack of appendicitis, but is improving and will likely be around in a few days.

Bety Reid, a former Beiseker girl, and who is employed in Edmonton is spending part of her holidays with her old school mates, Barbara and Pauline Schmaltz.

Mr. and Mrs. Val Schmaltz had a swell trip. Val claims the Austin worked swell—one Packard passed him, but that was on a downhill grade. I am sure there will be a big sale of Austin's after reading this important fact!

Many Beiseker residents will be shocked to hear of the sudden passing of Mr. Bruce M. Hay Spokane, who died suddenly of a heart attack. He was president of the Big Bend Land company taking over the reins of the firm after his father's death in 1933. He was often around Beiseker when Mr. and Harvey Gibson run the farm that was owned by the Big Bend.

Couple Wed At Double Ring Ceremony

ROCKYFORD.— The marriage of Miss Margaret Marion Podborski, third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Podborski of Rockyford, and Mr. Donald Denning Poole, second son of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Poole of Rowley, took place July 6, 1950 at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Fred Chapman in Calgary. Rev. Chapman officiated at the late afternoon ceremony.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father wore a ballerina length dress of white nylon lace and marquisette. A fitted waist and cap sleeves were featured with tiny pearl buttons accenting the front of the dress. She also wore matching full length lace mittens and a bonnet of white straw and roses. She carried a French shower bouquet of deep red roses and stephanis. Her only ornament was a cameo pendant, a gift if the bride groom.

Miss Ella Poole, R.N., of Olds, the bride's only attendant wore a similar gown and accessories in pink, and carried a colonial bou-quet of white sweet peas and pink sweetheart roses.

The groom was attended by Harold W. Roppel, of Rockyford.

A reception for the immediate family was held at the Club Cafe. The toast to the bride was given by Harold Roppel.

For travelling, the bride donned a teal blue gabardine suit with white and grey accessories. A corsage of pink sweetheart roses complimented her ensemble.

After a honeymoon trip to Banff and Lake Louise, Mr. and Mrs. Poole will take up residence at Trainger.

Night Shift Humor

As a rule the night shift at a police station is a dull grind for both the cops and the reporter on the beat. But one evening as I was playing pinochle with the desk sergeant a little before midnight, a girl came in. She was a mighty pretty girl of about 19.

"Something the matter, Miss?" asked the sergeant.

"Well, a boy tried to get fresh when we were parked in the hills. I've just walked back."

"That kind of a guy, huh?" the policeman growled. "You give me his name, miss, and we'll—"

"Oh, I don't want to prefer charges against him!" said the girl. "I just want you to give him these keys. He will come in to ask about them. You see," she added, with a grin, "he's walking, too!"

Funeral services were held from day, July 3 with Pastor Saugon in charge. Burial was made in the family plot of the Jarrow cemetery. The large crowd attending the funeral as well as the large number of floral tributes were some indication of the high esteem in which the deceased was held by his friends and neighbors.

Fee and Sons Ltd. were in charge of funeral arrangements.

Clyde Is Air-minded Alberta Community

By LILA LANGFORD

CLYDE.—This small community, located about 40 miles north of Edmonton, is one of the few small towns in Alberta that has its own permanent airport. It is situated conveniently on the edge of town.

There are four local plane owners, Albert Jone, L. G. Nelson, Eddie Aultman and Ray Nelson. It is not uncommon to see several cars at the airport and a crowd gathered there.

Residents are very proud of their local airport, and their adventurous pilots.

Last winter a class took training lessons here and they were all successful. On one occasion a plane from the north made an emergency landing here for fuel that enabled the pilot to fly safely on to Edmonton.

Children Increase 1,400 In Alberta

Children for whom child welfare benefits were paid in Alberta during June numbered 283,468, an increase of 1,400 over May, H. C. L. Gillman, regional director of the Family Allowance Branch has announced.

Number of families in receipt of the benefits was 132,480. Gross expenditure was $1,708,164, an increase of $9,341 over May.

After a campfire session devoted to food, stories and singing the cubs returned to the school dormitory, where they spent the night, except for about four hours frittered away in sleep.

The bride made an attractive picture in a charming afternoon gown of white sheer with small close fitting white hat to match. She carried a bouquet of beautiful red roses and was escorted by her father who gave her in marriage. Attending the bride was her sister Hazel and the groom's sister Marjory. They wore identically styled dresses in pastel tones of pink and mauve sheer respectively and both wore a pretty carnation corsage in harmonizing tones and matching hats.

Military Experts Prepare Canada's North Defences

By RAYMOND ARGYLE

War is 20 hours from Alberta. Will it get any closer?

That's the big question facing Canadian military men as the explosive Korean situation threatens to set off a new world conflict.

With the confines of the globe drawing smaller every day as military science comes up with new and more effective mechanisms of destruction, Canada for the first time is preparing for modern warfare within its own borders.

Last week, Alberta's Premier E. C. Manning reported that the provincial government is awaiting word from Ottawa on civil defence plans. Maj.-Gen. F. F. Worthington, co-ordinator for civil defences for Canada, has agreed to aid in any manner possible.

A province-wide civil defence corp is looming, and if the war threat grows more severe, the cabinet will probably launch such an organization with a minimum delay, led by Canadian Army troops, and backed by reserve troops and citizen-soldiers.

Focal point in the defence of northwestern Canada is of course Edmonton, with its great air field facilities, housing Western Command of the RCAF, along with new military depots north of the city on which construction is slated to begin this summer.

Despite the overwhelming importance of atomic weapons, military leaders concede that should war come, huge ground battles involving massive armies will still be fought.

Whether northwestern Canada itself will become a field of battle remains a moot question. Defence Minister Claxton told reporters this week that an armed assault on Canada's north would be merely a 'sucker punch' designed to lower the western powers' guard elsewhere. He said that at best such an attack could be only a token invasion.

That seems to be the consensus of opinion prevailing throughout the entire defence department. They base their conclusion on lessons learned in recent Canadian army manoeuvres throughout the north.

At that time Canadian expeditions found military operation in the sub-Arctic practically impossible, due to long distances, hazardous terrain, and freezing weather. This is despite the fact they had only nature to battle, and were not confronted with any military opposition.

But how well the Russians are prepared to fight in the north is the unanswered question around which northern war hinges. For decades the Soviet Union has been building great cities in the Arctic, and they may have seasoned armies capable of withstanding the rigors of far northern warfare.

Nevertheless, Canada's defence department, staffed by trained soldiers and military scientists, reports that this country's forces are adequate to repel any attack across the pole.

Overshadowing all other fear of war, is the fear of the atomic bomb.

How would Alberta stand to fare in the event of atomic warfare?

Great Pacific coast ports and eastern industrial centres would stand to take the worst damage.

But Edmonton, because of its strategic position, would undoubtedly be on the list for atomic bombing should war come. As a vital communications centre, important military outpost, and because of its industrial connections with northern uranium resources and nearby oil fields, Edmonton should be ready to expect the worst.

If world war were to become reality, Edmonton would probably be atom-bombed within 24 hours from the outbreak of hostilities.

An atomic bomb dropped in the centre of Edmonton, say at 101 street and Jasper, would wreak complete devastation for a dozen blocks in each direction, create a shambles of all buildings within a one mile arc, and cause extensive damage from there out to the edge of the city.

Probably 5,000 people would die in the initial blast. Another 5,000 would die from burns, injuries and shock, and an additional 10,000 would be maimed for life.

Says Cartel Operating In Alberta Meat Industry

A cartel exists in the Alberta meat industry, charges S. W. Sheppard, Edmonton manager of the Alberta Livestock Co-operative.

He told the 10th annual conference of the ALC that Edmonton packing plants are making "millions" by not allowing farmers a proper return for their meat produce.

Mr. Sheppard asserted that farmers are charged excessive penalties for off-grade hogs, and that "they have been getting together to maintain these charges."

"If there ever was a cartel, this is one," he declared. He added that "this dictatorship is making Reds out of people who fought for democracy."

Penalties for off-grade hogs are as high as $12.50 per hundred-weight.

Delegates expressed concern over competition from seven buying stations in the Edmonton district maintained by packing companies.

Some claimed that this was the tool through which the packing companies maintained their cartel in the Edmonton market.

Canada's First Cowboy

In speaking of Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent, and commenting on his remarkable reception by Albertans at the Calgary Stampede, we name him Canada's First Cowboy. Whether or not he ever had the ambition as a boy to be a great government leader, he did have aspirations to be a cowboy, and these were fulfilled last week in Calgary.

We don't mean that the Prime Minister was the first Canadian to wear cowboy shirt and chaps. We use the term in the same way that "prime" is used in his title of state. Mr. St. Laurent is the "Prime" Minister, and by an easy translation "The First Canadian Minister to His Majesty; and His Majesty's people in Canada."

Mr. St. Laurent therefore was the "Prime Cowboy" for a day, and whether as Cowboy or Prime Minister, he was accepted fully by the City of Calgary, if the ovation of the enthusiastic crowds could be taken as a measure of their regard for him.

Kicking political considerations out the window, this is as it should be. Heading the government of Canada is an honorable, but not an easy job. The Prime Minister should be feted by Canadian people whenever he can lay aside the cares of state for a few days and share with our joys and celebrations.

'Special Edition'

Special editions of newspapers are always interesting reading, and after glancing over the two fine Stampede supplements issued by Calgary papers last week, we are inclined to make a few short comments on the newspaper business, and extras and specials in particular.

The extra is practically a thing of the past, now that radio is able to provide listeners with up-to-the-minute flashes from around the world. Once upon a time extras with one special story perhaps 100 words long would sell thousands of copies on the streets.

Now, however, people are content with the radio short flashes, but later they turn eagerly to the regular edition of their paper to get all the details.

Special editions require an enormous effort on the part of editorial, business and mechanical departments of newspapers undertaking them. Thousands of words of copy must be written by reporters, dozens of ads must be sold to pay for the special, and the composing room staff has to work overtime to get the special out to the readers.

Some recent special editions of daily newspapers selling for 10 cents contained more reading than the latest $5 novel.

New War Hysteria

A sight witnessed on an Edmonton street car last week is giving this column considerable concern. Two men were conversing in Ukrainian when another man threatened to start a fight, and to heave them off the street car for not speaking the Canadian language. Moreover, the pair were condemned as communists for speaking their native language.

Now, we do feel that when people come to this country to live, they should try to follow our way of life, and that means learning, and using, the language. But to condemn a man as a communist because he speaks Ukrainian, is an example of war hysteria at its worst.

It is an ugly and filthy omen of what could come. People who employ such methods are traitors to their democratic heritage.

Note and Comment

Communism is now generally being used as an epithet and, like most epithets, means almost anything.

A wise man never tries to convince a foolish man; he lets the foolish man think that he has been convinced.

The churches in Canada are well-supported; let us trust that religion makes equal progress.

Stampede:
An Alberta Tradition

By T. W. PUE

In Ontario they have their county fairs, in other places horse racing and exhibitions, but Albertans, by and large, stick to the Stampede tradition.

Not being a native of Alberta, I don't really know much about the origin of stampedes, and have never attended the world-famous Calgary show. I have, however, seen and sensed the spirit of Western carnival at the Killam Stampede for three years in a row, and missed only by a narrow margin each year stampedes at Hardisty and Czar.

T. W. Pue

Though a famous tradition, it seems to me that the stampede may be a dying animal. Not really a pessimistic sort of individual, I've noticed it seems to be harder each year for existing stampede committees to make a profit and some have even lost money. This year Coronation and Czar, veteran stampede towns, have given up the fight against rising costs and more work with no more revenue.

A Big Job

For weeks before and after every stampede, townspeople and district farmers are busy with committee work. Besides the donation of weeks of work, businessmen are called upon to pay for advertising and printing in the necessary publicity of the biggest annual event in the district. I know these men and women don't object to all this, if the stampede results in enough profit for some worthy object to make them feel they are contributing time, effort and money for some gain for the community as a whole. It isn't for selfish reasons they do it, except for a laudatory selfish interest in the promotion of their own town or village.

And some mighty fine projects have been aided and built by the use of stampede profits. The beautiful little lake at Hardisty, for instance, is now a really fine recreation centre with a hall near the lake, made possible by such funds as the surpluses from Stampede week at Hardisty each year.

Killam now boasts one of the finest covered-in rinks, built with funds raised from the Stampede and other Board of Trade activities.

A Changing World

As we all know, times do change, and it may be that fewer but bigger stampedes will be necessary to keep the tradition alive. For instance, instead of just dropping out of the stampede picture altogether, Czar might combine their stampede with, say, Hardisty. Such an arrangement could include holding the annual show at the bigger town for two years, the smaller one for one year, out of each three years.

American, Western and Canadian

As far as I know, the Alberta stampede is peculiar to this province in Canada. We probably would never have had it if it had not been for American settlers bringing it in with them from the States, which means Stampede is primarily of U.S.A. origin. It is, of course also primarily Western and we in Alberta have made it Canadian—Western Canadian, that is.

So I say, long live the Alberta Stampede, for good-natured community entertainment and (sometimes) community profit.

Scriptural Meditations

By AINSLEY BLAIR

"The darkness of the evil one incloses those who neglect to pray. The whispered temptations of the enemy entice them to sin; and it is all because they do not make use of the privileges that God has given them in the divine appointment of prayer."

Why should the sons and daughters of God be reluctant to pray, when prayer is the key in the hand of faith to unlock heaven's storehouse, where are treasured the boundless resources of Omnipotence?

Without unceasing prayer and diligent watching, we are in danger of growing careless and of deviating from the right path. The adversary seeks continually to obstruct the way to the mercy-seat, that we may not by earnest supplication and faith obtain grace and power to resist temptation."

COMMENT FROM THE PRESS

Scandinavians
Ignore Borders

From Calgary Albertan

Four countries in Northern Europe are well on their way in a project to turn an area of 18 million people into a single labor market.

What this means, in effect, is that Sweden, Denmark, Norway and Finland are turning back the clock to the idyllic conditions prevailing in most of Europe before the First World War. In those trustful days anybody could go virtually anywhere in Europe without either visa or work permit to take up any work according to his own ability and desires.

The whole project is based on the theory that—because of the different economic structure of the four countries—unemployment is not likely to hit them all at the same time or in the same manner.

The idea was put to a highly successful practical test during the last war, when tens of thousands of Norwegians and Danes sought refuge in Sweden from German oppression.

Encouraged by this wartime experience, the Swedish parliament in 1944 urged the government to go ahead with negotiations on a common labor market with other Scandinavian governments at the end of the war.

Ottawa - Yellowhead

From The Edmonton Journal

When Edmonton's Senator MacKinnon says Ottawa might be persuaded to help in the building of the Evergreen Highway, the four western provinces should sit up and take notice. All of them are directly interested, for this is the great strategic, tourist and commercial highway that, in bits and pieces, even now runs from Winnipeg to Jasper and on to the coast.

The governments of Alberta and British Columbia should be particularly interested from commercial and tourist viewpoints. A good, hard-surfaced highway linking the big national parks in the mountains and parklands of the northern sections of the provinces, and providing a direct motor route between the coasts and Alberta's biggest cities, would be a paying proposition in more ways than one.

The western provinces should test Mr. MacKinnon's optimism by making definite proposals to the federal government on the Evergreen Highway.

Letters to the Editor

OLD-AGE PENSIONS

Dear Sir—We can be thankful that apparently Ottawa is going to make no secret of the fact that the proposed $40 - a - month universal old - age pension is not a free gift but will have to be paid for by everybody in the country who makes a dollar or spends a dollar.

The proposed 2 per cent payroll tax which the employer would pass on to the consumer at an increased price of his product has the merit of keeping us aware that, like all social security measures, benefits can come to us only to the extent that our own money and productive capacities can provide them. The universal old age pension and all of our many social security measures are of undoubted benefit to a certain number of Canadians, but it should not be forgotten that their billion dollar cost is a common charge against all of us and an extra charge against those millions of provident, self reliant Canadians who believe in making their own way and providing their own social security.

Toronto L. L. RUTLEDGE

YOU'RE WELCOME

Dear Sir—On May 26, we wired to you seeking your co-operation in connection with the Manitoba Flood Relief Fund. At that time the Red River flood was at its height and many thousands of residents of the Red River Valley area had been driven from their homes.

The flood waters have now receded and business life of the community is back to normal. Partially as a result of your generous help, along with local committees which have been giving their energetic help to the Fund, we now have received contributions of more than $6,500,000 in cash and goods to the value of several hundreds of thousands of dollars, which goods have been directed to the Red Cross and Salvation Army for distribution to flood victims.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON:

Book of Ruth Portrays Story of True Courage

The great German poet Goethe, described the book of Ruth in the Old Testament as "the loveliest little epic and idyllic whole which has come down to us."

The Book of Ruth is a prose-poem. It was one of the five Rolls read at certain times in the synagogues, this being used at Pentecost, or the great festival of the harvest.

There is no certainty as to the time it was written. It was certainly composed much later than the time in which the story is set for reference is made to the customs as being of former times.

There are many views as to the purpose of the book. Some think it was written in protest against a narrow antipathy against foreigners during the time of Ezra and Nehemiah, which required all foreign wives to be divorced.

On the other hand, Matthew Henry considers the lesson of the book in "its design to lead to Providence, to show us how conversant it is about our private concerns, and to teach us in them all to have eye to it, acknowledge God in all our ways and in all events that concern us."

Considering its picture of ideal family life quite natural in the Bible, dealing with human and divine, Dr. Alexander MacLaren thinks "surely it would be no unworthy object to enshrine in its pages a picture of the noble working of that human love which makes so much of human life."

The story opens with a picture of famine in Palestine during the period of the Judges. Apparently fearful of results, a Hebrew named Elimelech migrated with his wife Naomi and two sons, Mahlon and Chilion, to Moab, across the River Jordan, where conditions were much better—an action later considered in the nature of deserting his country and his God.

"There is no doubt that Elimelech was wrong," says Bishop Ash-ton Oxenden, "in leaving the land of Judah with his family, and settling in the Godless country of Moab." At any rate, during ten years the Hebrew died, his two sons married and they too, passed away, leaving the widow Naomi, with her two daughters-in-law, Ruth and Orpah. Eventually, Naomi determined to return home.

The daughters-in-law accompanied Naomi a part of the way. Orpah returned to her Moabite home, while Ruth decided to accompany the elder woman, although in so doing, according to the customs of the times, she was casting her lot to share with her mother-in-law a new nationality, her uncertain destiny, her different religious, and finally, a common burial place. Ruth's action was a definite break with all her past.

"In our desire to honor the courage and charm of Ruth devotion," says James Moffatt, "we moderns are apt to do some injustice to Orpah. . . . In returning to her native land and refusing to be a burden to the older woman she acted according to Oriental standards, wisely and even, as both she and Naomi felt, in a true spirit of kindness."

"Surely, there never was a finer example of the self-devotion characteristics of women than that exhibited by Ruth," says Mrs. S. T. Martyn.

"She was not leaving her native country and her father's house to become the inmate of a palace . . . on the contrary she was to be the sole companion of an aged and desolate woman, borne down by grief and poverty, with the apparent certainty that constant toil in a strange land was henceforth to be her portion." As a foreigner, she should naturally expect no possibility of marriage in Judah.

In passing on this story, some comment should be made upon the character of the mother-in-law, Naomi. Her life for ten years in Moab must have been ideal, kindly, and inspiring—else where would have come that affection which existed between her and Ruth, so strong as to transcend racial and religious barriers, two of mankind's most insurmountable prejudices? Naomi's life recommended her faith to this Moabitess, wonderful testimony to faith and trust in God.

Arriving in Judah, Ruth found romance. She met Boaz, cousin of her dead husband, and, according to Hebrew custom, after legal technicalities were straightened out, he took her for his wife. Their son, Obed, was grandfather of the great king David, and in the human line a direct ancestor of Jesus himself.

Northern Alberta School Described By Reporter

By HENRY THOMPSON

The furthest north school in the Lac la Biche area, in the extreme northwest corner of the Wandering River country, is the Sunny View School.

Fifty-seven miles from their nearest railway town, these pioneer farmers have hewn out of a wooded wilderness, farms as good as any in northern Alberta.

The crops in this district are much further advanced than those along the highway and railway. A forty-five acre field of wheat on back-setting, averaged 12 inches high in spite of the fact that rainfall was very slight this spring.

A log school built by volunteer labor and its home-made desks are still in use. Five large spruce poles prop its south walls, for what purpose the teacher could not inform me. I suspect it was there to form a shade of green trees to stop the hot sun from roasting the inmates through the curtainless windows. A six by ten windowless enclosure inside the school walls once served as a teachers residence.

A small open cupboard with approximately two dozen books; a teacher's table and a hard-backed chair composed all its equipment. The desks, combination seats and desks, are so warped and unsteady that the slightest motion of the children upsets the desks.

There are no pencil holders or ink stands. Truly a more miserable children's desk could not be devised, yet these sunny-faced children were as happy and frolicsome as if in a fully modern school.

It is hardly credible that conditions like this should exist under a school system that is claimed to be the best in the dominion. There is something radically wrong with the business end of the enlarged school division that failed to grasp the realities of a situation so plainly harmful to the growing bodies of young children.

Letter to Louisa

Love Broken by Idle Gossip of Friends

Dear Louisa: I am eighteen years of age and I'm in love with a man of twenty-five. We went out together for four months but we had to break up on account of people talking too much about us.

We both hated to leave each other but we thought it was best as that was the only way to keep everybody quiet.

He told me to try forgetting him completely but I just can't. It makes three and a half months since we parted and my thoughts keep coming back to him and I feel lost and lonely.

If I go to a dance and he happens to be there I never seem to have fun and he seems to enjoy himself wherever he goes. How can we get together again?

W.W.

Answer: I cannot understand why people should talk about you for going together if you were behaving yourselves. And even if they did talk? Why should you have to break up and try to forget if you loved each other?

I hate to cause you any more grief but from the last paragraph in your letter when you write that he seems to enjoy himself wherever he goes, it seems to me that he must have been tired of going steady and decided that was the easiest way to end the affair.

Believe me, W.W., if a man is really in love with you, he is not going to let a few catty remarks make him give you up. So, reading between the lines, I think the wisest thing you can do is to try and forget him. Don't fool yourself that he is in love with you, for if he was nothing would keep him from trying to see you and at his age he would be talking marriage.

You did not say that your young man was single but I presume he is. But if he is a married man, I certainly have no sympathy for you. Any single girl who runs around with married men is not only looking for trouble but usually finds it and has only herself to blame.

LOUISA.

Dear Louisa: I will soon be sixteen years old and mother thinks I am too young to talk to boys. All the other girls go out but I have to go with a girl. What can I do in a fix like this?

A.L.B.

Answer: A girl is never too young to talk to boys. In fact, I think parents make a grave mistake in not letting boys and girls have small parties and get together when they are young so they will get used to each other and not be carried away by the first smooth talker they meet when they are finally allowed to go with the other sex.

I do not think that parents should just turn children loose to go where they please and with whom they please and stay out all hours. But I think they should know the boys their girls go out with, they should know where they are going and require them to be home at a reasonable hour. And, if they have given them the right home training, have told them the things they should know and how to distinguish between what is right and what is wrong, they will be able to allow them more freedom and know that they are safer than if they keep them in ignorance and try to protect them by keeping them shut in.

LOUISA.

20th Century FARM NEWS

World Wheat Shortage Ends, Surplus Seen

The Food and Agriculture Organization in a recent statement on world grain production declared that the period of scarcity is now over and that the world is already confronted with surpluses.

It is feared in some quarters that the Korean situation may change this picture. Should southern Korea fall it would mean a loss of upwards of 100,000 tons of rice which normally goes to Japan. Furthermore, there might be a swing of the major rice producing areas which export about two and three-quarter million tons annually, Indonesia, Burma, Siam and French Indo-China, to communist control.

Prospects at present indicate that the world's wheat crop will be larger than last year. While the United States production will be down, many other countries report improved prospects.

Present prospects indicate that Canada's crop will be considerably larger than last year. There has been no estimate of production as yet, but prospects in Manitoba and Saskatchewan are quite good, and in Alberta, although a bumper crop is not possible, conditions are much better than at the same time last year when the crop from the prairie provinces totalled 342 million bushels.

In Western Europe, which produces about 60 per cent of Europe's total wheat crop, wheat production is expected to be 5 per cent larger than last year's crop of 895 million bushels.—Wheat Pool Budget.

tions and full use should be made of them. With more satisfactory crop growth following recent rains the use of sprays and dusts will now prove more effective than baits. It is estimated that under normal conditions one spraying is as good as three baitings.

The more favorable weather had improved crop conditions considerably in some areas, but unless every effort is made the grasshoppers can still take a heavy toll. All-out control should be applied by all farmers in the hopepr areas.

Crop Moisture Stands At 59% In Alberta

During the past week the moisture condition of the three Prairie Provinces has remained stationary. The total moisture condition now stands at 75 per cent of normal, compared with 75 per cent last week and 69 per cent at this time a year ago.

The total moisture condition for Alberta now stands at 59 per cent of normal, compared with 58 per cent last week. Saskatchewan now stands at 76 per cent of normal, compared with 75 per cent last week. Manitoba now stands at 112 per cent of normal, compared with 113 per cent last week.

Navy Day Planned To Honor Seamen

The first Saturday in October has been designated as Navy Day and the day following as Battle of the Atlantic Sunday, Defence Minister Brooke Claxton announced this week.

On Navy Day, which this year falls on October 7, ships and establishments of the Royal Canadian Navy will hold "open house" to the general public wherever possible and the citizens of Canada will be given the opportunity to become better acquainted with their navy.

Displays and demonstrations will be staged as part of the "open house" program.

On Battle of the Atlantic Sunday, naval church parades will be held in the various localities in which there are naval bases, training establishments and divisions. Special services will be conducted in churches across Canada in commemoration of the part played by the Royal Canadian Navy and by Canada's Merchant Navy in the struggle to preserve the vital ocean lifeline to Great Britain, and tribute will be paid to the naval and merchant seamen who lost their lives in the war at sea.

344 Miles Welded
Along Pipe Line

Crews on the Interprovincial Pipe Line Company project between Edmonton and the Great Lakes have completed 344 miles of welding on the crude oil pipe line, it was announced recently.

For the past three weeks construction "spreads" have averaged better than the nine-miles-a-day construction schedule set for them and have overcome their handicap of late starts in some places due to unseasonable weather and spring floods.

Crews on the main line added 41 miles of new ditch to the completed work during last week, despite stops in some areas due to rain. Welders added another 50 miles to the steadily lengthening tube of steel pipe and 52 miles of pipe were coated and wrapped and 46 miles were backfilled.

Cumulative totals for the whole system now are as follows: ditched, 356 miles; welded, 344 miles; coated and wrapped, 324 miles; back-filled, 299 miles.

Greatest progress continued to be in the western division between Edmonton and Regina, with No. 2, operating westward across the flat prairie out of Rosetown, Sask., far outdistancing the other construction units. This has resulted in a levelling off on that spread and the working force has been reduced by 40 men, who had been added as extra labor at the start to overcome weather and late starting handicaps.

Tourist Business Reaches New Peak

Alberta's 1950 tourist outlook is more promising than ever before, according to Dan C. Campbell, South Sider and director of the provincial government's tourist travel bureau. He told the Sun that the tourist business will probably be up 15 per cent over last year, which was in turn a record-shattering year.

Reports at border points this year show a heavier traffic into Canada than last year, Mr. Campbell reported, and he expects American tourists to spend about $25 millions in the province this year.

free money, as tourists came only to spend, and did not compete in He emphasized that this was the employment or business field. Of the $25 million, he said, farmers should reap about $14 millions in return for their food products.

Scotch, But No Soda

Along about this time, when the thermometer starts playing tag with the nineties, that is when you start thinking of long tall glasses, with the cold beads forming on the side. Did some one say Tom Collins or Mint Julep? Well the claims dept. now have them all beat we heard, they always have a little Scotch in their office. So naturally we went up to visit Messrs. Millman, Edwards and Duthie. Sure, they have a little Scotch up there. Only, it is female Scotch and hails from Edinburgh. The name? Oh, yes, you'll want the name. It is Maureen Mackay.

FOR THE BEST SERVICE IN TOWN

Tree Planting Car Resumes Alta. Tour

Returning to Alberta, where it opened its annual tour of the prairie provinces this spring, the Canadian Forestry Association's "classroom on wheels" the tree planting car, is again visiting communities in the province.

Opening its 1950 tour from Edmonton in March the car spent five weeks in Alberta, moving into Saskatchewan for a period of two months. It has been travelling over the lines of both Canadian National and Canadian Pacific.

Some soil drifting in the areas visited has resulted in increased interest amongst the farming people in the use of trees as windbreaks and for field shelters. The striking difference in crop yield in dry years between protected and unprotected fields is proving conclusively that field belting pays dividends. In areas of light soil native and planted trees are a great natural aid in conserving moisture and preventing wind damage to growing crops. In some cases the owners of protected fields harvested an average yield exceeding that secured by their neighbors from unprotected fields of up to twelve bushels to the acre. In areas suffering complete crop failure, protected fields continue to yield at least some crop.

A steadily increasing number of farm families are building shelter belts around the farm home and buildings. Inside the protection afforded by the walls of trees they can develop more pleasant and interesting home living conditions. Gardens and orchards are assured greater success.

Large crowds have attended the meetings held in both Alberta and Saskatchewan, with over 10,000 people visiting the car since it opened the present tour. Of special interest is the reception given the possibilities of growing fruit on the prairie, with a large number of farmers building up orchards.

The prairie towns and villages reflect the growing use of trees. Their residents are undertaking both private and community plantings, with the result that well treed streets, little parks, and lovely home grounds are now a familiar sight.

The earliest patterned textiles known are Egyptian linens of the 15th century BC.
